

Sponsor DevOpsDays Victoria 2018

DevOpsDays is completely volunteer run and not-for-profit. The means that it costs less to run, and less to attend. We look to appeal to a wide audience looking to improve the communication between the traditional silos of the Development and Operations process.

DevOpsDays looks to involve all our attendees not just in learning, but also in sharing of their knowledge, which it facilitates through a combination of curated content and attendee driven “open spaces”.

This is the first DevOpsDays in Victoria, so we’re looking to start with a smaller event, with about 100 attendees. You can expect attendees to be a diverse set of technical practitioners involved in Development, Operations, as well as Security, Quality, and Process.

You can best interact with attendees at the practitioner level. By sending your engineers and developers, your organization can be much better placed for involvement in discussions with other practitioners.
